

A BC Forest Safety Council faller trainee examines a tree for falling with a Qualified Supervisor Trainer at a worksite near Port Alberni. The trainees had to demonstrate their safe falling skills to complete the first part of the Council's new Faller Certification program that is required to work as a faller in B.C.