WorkSafeBC Incident Investigation Reports

Date: August 2024

Details: WorkSafeBC's incident investigation reports can help employers and workers understand the factors that contribute to workplace incidents so similar incidents can be prevented from happening in the future.

Some of these reports also provide recommendations to industry and information that can be used to help identify incident trends.

The two most recent reports are related to:

- a wildland firefighter who suffered serious injuries during a controlled burn-off due to a drip torch;

and

- a worker who was seriously injured when the self-loader boom broke apart from a logging truck.
